INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Board of Directors of
The University of Central Florida
Research Foundation, Inc.:

Opinion

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of The University of Central Florida Research Foundation, Inc. (the Research Foundation), a component unit of The University of Central Florida, as of and for the years ended June 30, 2023 and 2022, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise the Research Foundation's basic financial statements as listed in the table of contents.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Research Foundation as of June 30, 2023 and 2022, and the changes in its financial position and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Basis of Opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAS) and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of the Research Foundation and to meet our other ethical responsibilities, in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audits. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Responsibilities of Management for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is required to evaluate whether there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Research Foundation's ability to continue as a going concern for twelve months beyond the financial statement date, including any currently known information that may raise substantial doubt shortly thereafter.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not absolute assurance and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with GAAS and Government Auditing Standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with GAAS and Government Auditing Standards, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Research Foundation's internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the financial statements.
- Conclude whether, in our judgment, there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Research Foundation's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control-related matters that we identified during the audit.

Required Supplementary Information

Accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America require that management's discussion and analysis on pages 4 through 8 be presented to supplement the basic financial statements. Such information, although not a part of the basic financial statements, is required by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board who considers it to be an essential part of financial reporting for placing the basic financial statements in an appropriate operational, economic, or historical context. We have applied certain limited procedures to the required supplementary information in accordance with GAAS, which consisted of inquiries of management about the methods of preparing the information and comparing the information for consistency with management's responses to our inquiries, the basic financial statements, and other knowledge we obtained during our audits of the basic financial statements. We do not express an opinion or provide any assurance on the information because the limited procedures do not provide us with sufficient evidence to express an opinion or provide any assurance.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated August 23, 2023 on our consideration of the Research Foundation's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the Research Foundation's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

THE UNIVERSITY OF CENTRAL FLORIDA RESEARCH FOUNDATION, INC.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

The University of Central Florida Research Foundation's (the Research Foundation), a direct support organization of the University of Central Florida (the University or UCF), management prepared the following discussion and analysis of the Research Foundation's financial statements, as of and for the years ended June 30, 2023 and 2022. This discussion and analysis is intended to serve as an introduction to the Research Foundation's basic financial statements. It should be read in conjunction with the basic financial statements and notes thereof.

The report consists of the following:

- Management's Discussion and Analysis
- Basic Financial Statements, which include:
 - Statements of Net Position;
 - Statements of Revenue, Expenses, and Changes in Net Position;
 - Statements of Cash Flows; and
 - Notes to the Financial Statements.

The statements of net position present all of the Research Foundation's assets and liabilities, with the difference between the two reported as "net position." Over time, increases or decreases in the net position may serve as a useful indicator of whether the financial position of the Research Foundation is improving or declining.

The statements of revenue, expenses, and changes in net position explain whether revenue and other support exceed expenses, which results in an increase in net position, or whether there is a decrease in net position. All changes in net position are reported as soon as the underlying events giving rise to the change occurs, regardless of the timing of related cash flows.

The statements of cash flows are another way of assessing the Research Foundation's financial viability. The primary purpose of the statements of cash flows is to provide relevant information about cash receipts and cash payments of the Research Foundation throughout the fiscal year.

These financial statements include all assets and liabilities using the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States and the pronouncements of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board.

Footnotes to the financial statements provide additional information that is essential to a full understanding of the data provided in the basic financial statements.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

Net Position: The statements of net position report all financial resources of the Research Foundation as of the end of the fiscal year. Net position over time can be a useful indicator of an entity's financial position. The Research Foundation's assets exceed liabilities as of June 30, 2023

In fiscal year 2023, operating revenue and net position released from restrictions was greater than fiscal year 2022 by $2,810,571 due to an increase in operating revenue of $2,582,384, an increase in Office of Research and Commercialization (ORC) contributions and miscellaneous income of $264,481, and offset by a decrease in net position released from restrictions of $36,294.

In fiscal year 2023, non-operating revenue (expense) was less than fiscal year 2022 by $1,075,766 due to a negative change in investment revenue of $935,106 and a loss on investments of $140,660.

Analysis of Temporarily Restricted Net Position: The temporarily restricted net position is a result of donations or contributions received during the year which are restricted by the donor for a specific purpose, such as research by a professor. The temporarily restricted net position is restricted for the general purpose of research activities. Restricted net position is released from restrictions and transferred to unrestricted net position when all donor or principal investigator provisions have been met. Total restricted contribution revenue received during fiscal year 2023 was $2,190,295 compared to $2,416,656 received in fiscal year 2022.

OTHER SIGNIFICANT EVENTS

The Research Foundation has a wholly owned subsidiary, the UCF Research Foundation Real Estate LLC, which was created to hold any land and buildings that the Research Foundation obtained. Currently there is no activity in the subsidiary.

ECONOMIC FACTORS THAT MAY AFFECT THE FUTURE

The University employs individuals whose salaries are allocated to the Research Foundation. During fiscal years ended June 30, 2023 and 2022, the Research Foundation reimbursed the University for certain administrative salaries and related benefits. Other items such as office space and minor operating expenses, such as travel, are also provided for by the University. The University is expected to continue to provide this support. However, should the economy significantly affect state appropriations, this may have an impact on the support provided for the Research Foundation's activities.

NOTE A--SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Reporting Entity: The University of Central Florida Research Foundation, Inc. and Subsidiary (the Research Foundation), is a not-for-profit Florida Corporation incorporated April 30, 1991. The Research Foundation is operated exclusively for the benefit of The University of Central Florida (the University or UCF). The Research Foundation is a University Direct-Support Organization within the definition of Florida Statutes Section 240.299, and as such is organized and operated exclusively to receive, hold, invest and administer property and to make expenditures to or for the benefit of the University. Since the Research Foundation's purpose complements that of the University's Office of Research, many functions are coordinated to maximize the benefit to the University's research community.

The purposes of the Research Foundation include the following:

- Promotion and encouragement of, and assistance to, the research activities of faculty, staff and students of the University.
- Development of research.
- Development of the provision of buildings for such research activities and related or complementary uses.
- Providing a means by which inventions and copyrightable materials may be developed, patented, applied and utilized in order that the results of the University research shall be made available to the public and that funds be made available from inventions and copyrightable materials to support education and research at the University.

The Research Foundation formed a wholly owned subsidiary, UCF Research Foundation Real Estate LLC, for the purpose of holding land and a building that was donated by Intersil Corp in April 2010, but was subsequently returned to Intersil. There were no assets, liabilities, net position or activity for the LLC as of and for the years ended June 30, 2023 and 2022. As such, no accounts for the LLC are reflected in these financial statements.

Basis of Accounting and Financial Reporting: The financial statements of the Research Foundation are prepared in accordance with Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) as applied to governmental units. The Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) is the standard-setting body for governmental accounting and financial reporting.

In accordance with GAAP, the Research Foundation qualifies for treatment as a component unit of the University of Central Florida; therefore, the Research Foundation's financial statements are included in the University's financial statements.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CENTRAL FLORIDA RESEARCH FOUNDATION, INC.

Years Ended June 30, 2023 and 2022

For financial reporting purposes, the Research Foundation is considered a special-purpose government organization engaged only in business-type activities. Accordingly, the Research Foundation's financial statements have been presented using the economic resources measurement focus and the accrual basis of accounting. Under the accrual basis, revenues are recognized when earned, and expenses are recorded when an obligation has been incurred.

Changes in the net position of the Research Foundation as a result of support, revenue, expenses, gains and losses are classified based on the existence of any funding restrictions. Accordingly, the net position of the Research Foundation and changes therein are classified and reported as follows:

- Unrestricted: Net position that is not subject to funding restrictions. The unrestricted net position may be designated for specific purposes by action of the Board of Directors.
- Temporarily Restricted: Net position whose use by the Research Foundation is subject to donor-imposed stipulations that can be fulfilled by actions of the Research Foundation pursuant to those stipulations or that expire by the passage of time.

Expenses are reported as decreases in the unrestricted net position. Expirations of donor-imposed stipulations that simultaneously increase one class of net position and decrease another are reported as reclassifications between the applicable classes of net position. Residual funds from fixed priced contracts remain restricted as unearned restricted revenue for the principal investigator to spend on research related activities. Revenue is recognized as the respective project expenditures occur. When both restricted and unrestricted resources are available for use, it is the Research Foundation's policy to use restricted resources first, then unrestricted resources as they are needed.

These financial statements are entirely those of the Research Foundation alone and, accordingly, are not intended to present the financial position or the results of operations of the University.

Fund Accounting: To ensure observance of limitations and restrictions placed on the use of resources available to the Research Foundation, the accounts of the Research Foundation are maintained in accordance with the principles of fund accounting. This is the procedure by which resources for various purposes are classified for accounting and reporting purposes into funds established according to their nature and purposes. All of the Research Foundation's financial activity is accounted for in a single enterprise fund.

Cash and Cash Equivalents: Cash and cash equivalents consist of amounts on deposit with financial institutions in a checking repurchase sweep account and amounts held by UCF under a fiscal agent arrangement.

A portion of the Due from UCF is restricted for contracts and grants and project balances.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CENTRAL FLORIDA RESEARCH FOUNDATION, INC.

Due from UCF consists of amounts held by UCF to be invested in investment opportunities which are permissible under the current investment policy.

Investments: The Research Foundation accounts for investments with a readily determinable value in accordance with GASB Codification Section 150, Investments. Under this provision, investments are recorded at fair value on the statements of net position. Investment income, including changes in the fair value of investments, is reported as revenue in the statements of revenue, expenses and changes in net position.

Fair value is based on the quoted market price for securities and is adjusted to fair value upon known relevant information.

The equity method is utilized for investments in which the Research Foundation has significant influence and the cost method is utilized for investments in which a readily determinable fair value is not available. Under the equity method, the investment is recorded at historical cost and increased or decreased by the investor's share of the Research Foundation's profit or loss and the Research Foundation's share of dividends. Under the cost method, a long-term investment is recorded at cost and carried at that amount until it is sold or otherwise disposed of or if there is an impairment in the value.

Receivables: Receivables are valued at net realizable value and are unsecured. It is the Research Foundation's policy to provide an allowance for accounts receivable that are not expected to be collected. The allowance as of June 30, 2023 and 2022 was $909,794 and $741,105, respectively.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments: The Research Foundation did not hold any derivative instruments for trading purposes at June 30, 2023 and 2022, and does not invest in derivative instruments. The carrying amount of cash receivables and payables approximates fair value.

is recognized only to the extent expenses are incurred in executing the applicable contracts and grants.

Classification of Revenue: The Research Foundation classifies its revenue as operating or non-operating according to the following criteria:

- Operating Revenue: Includes activities that have the characteristics of exchange transactions, such as royalty and licensing transactions and contracts and grants. Exchange transactions are transactions in which each party receives and gives up essentially equal values. Contribution income is also considered operating revenue.
- Non-operating Revenue: Includes activities that are not normal Research Foundation operating activities, such as investment income and investment gains and losses.

Revenue Recognition: The Research Foundation negotiates with licensees for their purchase of or license to use inventions and the related patents, trademarks and copyrights developed by the University and its employees. Pursuant to its operating agreement with the University, the Research Foundation collects the licensees' payments and distributes the proceeds to the inventors and the University. The Research Foundation recognizes royalty and licensing revenue when amounts are earned with licensees in accordance with the terms in the license agreement. Patent, trademark and copyright application costs are expensed when incurred. Revenue is recognized on contracts and grants, other agreements and research initiatives when disbursements are incurred. Revenue is recognized on contributions when received or when an enforceable promise is made.

Income Taxes: The Research Foundation is exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and, therefore, no provision for income tax expense or liability has been made.

Facilities Use and Personnel: Facilities and personnel are provided to the Research Foundation by the Office of Research and Commercialization, a division of the University. During fiscal years ended June 30, 2023 and 2022, the Research Foundation reimbursed the University for certain administrative personnel costs. All investments are held in the name of the Research Foundation.

	Stated Value Method	2023	2023 Portfolio Percentage	2022

NOTE D--RISK MANAGEMENT

The Research Foundation is exposed to various risks of loss related to torts; theft of, damage to, and destruction of assets; errors and omissions; and natural disasters. The Research Foundation has acquired commercial liability insurance coverage to secure against potential losses.

NOTE E--FAIR VALUE MEASUREMENT

GASB emphasizes that fair value is a market-based measurement, not an entity-specific measurement. Therefore, a fair value measurement should be determined based on the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability. As such, GASB defines fair value as the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. GASB describes fair value as an exit price where measurement assumes a transaction takes place in an entity's principal market, or most advantageous market in the absence of a principal market, and the market participants are acting in their economic best interests. GASB requires an entity to use valuation techniques that are appropriate under the circumstances and for which sufficient data are available to measure fair value. Valuation techniques should be applied consistently and maximize the use of relevant observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs.

Valuation Hierarchy: GASB establishes a hierarchy of inputs to valuation techniques used to measure fair value. The hierarchy has three levels which are defined as follows:

- Level 1: Inputs to the valuation technique are quoted prices (unadjusted) for identical assets or liabilities in active markets.
- Level 2: Inputs to the valuation technique, other than quoted prices within Level 1, that are observable for an asset or liability, either directly or indirectly.
- Level 3: Inputs to the valuation technique are unobservable.

In instances where the determination of the fair value hierarchy measurement is based on inputs from different levels of the fair value hierarchy, the level in the fair value hierarchy within which the entire fair value measurement falls is based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety. The Research Foundation's assessment of the significance of a particular input to the fair value measurement in its entirety requires judgment and considers factors specific to the asset or liability.

The following table presents assets reported at fair value as of June 30, 2023 and 2022, and their respective classification under the GASB valuation hierarchy:

REPORT ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING AND ON COMPLIANCE AND OTHER MATTERS BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Board of Directors of
The University of Central Florida
Research Foundation, Inc.:

We have audited, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, the financial statements of The University of Central Florida Research Foundation, Inc. (the Research Foundation), which comprise the statement of net position as of June 30, 2023, and the related statements of revenue, expenses and changes in net position, and cash flows for the year then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements, and have issued our report thereon dated August 23, 2023.

Report on Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements, we considered the Research Foundation's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Research Foundation's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Research Foundation's internal control.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the Research Foundation's financial statements will not be prevented or detected and corrected on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph of this section and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies. Given these limitations, during our audit we did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified.

Report on Compliance and Other Matters

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the Research Foundation's financial statements are free from material misstatement, we performed tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the financial statements. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit and, accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance or other matters that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards.

Purpose of this Report

The purpose of this report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the Research Foundation's internal control or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the Research Foundation's internal control and compliance. Accordingly, this communication is not suitable for any other purpose.
